

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Reward Offered in Loon Killing in Ferry County, Wash.

(June 21, 2010) — The Humane Society of the United States and The Humane Society Wildlife Land Trust are offering a reward of up to $2,500 for information leading to the identification, arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for illegally shooting a female common loon in northeastern Washington.

The Case:

According to the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife, on or around May 9, a female loon was shot and killed at Long Lake in the Colville National Forest south of Republic, Wash. Any hatchling chicks would not have survived.

“This senseless poaching of a protected species is a serious crime, and we implore anyone with information to come forward,” said Dan Paul, Washington state director for The HSUS. “We are extremely grateful to the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife for their diligent work to find the person or persons responsible.”

The common loon is protected under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act, and killing one is illegal under state and federal law.

Poaching:

- Wildlife officials estimate that for every wild animal killed legally — tens of millions of animals per year — another is killed illegally.
- Every year, thousands of poachers are arrested nationwide; however, it is estimated that only 1 percent to 5 percent of poachers are caught.
- Poachers injure or kill wildlife anytime, anywhere and sometimes do so in particularly cruel ways. Wildlife officials report that poachers often commit other crimes as well.
- The HSUS works with state and federal wildlife agencies to offer rewards of $2,500 for information leading to arrest and conviction of suspected poachers.

The Investigators:

Anyone with information about this case is asked to call Fish and Wildlife Officer Ron Cram at 509-680-1546. Callers may remain anonymous.

The HSUS Media Contact:

Liz Bergstrom, 240-751-0659, ebergstrom@humanesociety.org

The HSUS works to curb poaching across the country. Visit humanesociety.org/poaching for more information.

The Humane Society of the United States is the nation's largest animal protection organization — backed by 11 million Americans, or one of every 28. For more than a half-century, The HSUS has been fighting for the protection of all animals through advocacy, education and hands-on programs. Celebrating animals and confronting cruelty — On the Web at humanesociety.org.

Follow The HSUS on Twitter. See our work for animals on your iPhone by searching “HumaneTV” in the App Store.

Since 1993 the Humane Society Wildlife Land Trust, alone or in partnership with other conservation groups, has participated in the protection of more than 1.8 million acres of wildlife habitat in 37 states, including 92 acres in Washington, and eight foreign countries. On all properties owned by the Trust or protected by the Trust's conservation easement, both here and abroad, we prohibit recreational and commercial hunting and trapping and restrict logging and development. The Trust's commitment to these principles will never change as we continue to assist caring landowners to make their property permanent, safe homes for wildlife. Join our online community at wildlifelandtrust.org.

Follow the Humane Society Wildlife Land Trust on Twitter.

The Humane Society of the United States
2100 L Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20037
humanesociety.org

The Humane Society Wildlife Land Trust
2100 L Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20037
wildlifelandtrust.org